3 of 8
Crewmen
Killed

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — An eight-jet Air Force B52G intercontinental bomber carrying two unarmed nuclear devices crashed and burned in rural farmlands early today, killing three of the eight crewmen aboard.

The five other crewmen parachuted to safety after one of the nuclear devices was jettisoned and sent floating eastward by parachute. The other nuclear device was found in the wreckage of the multi-million dollar plane and was removed by Air Force ordnance crews.

THE LAST OF the bodies of the three victims was found at mid-morning, hanging grotesquely in a tree.

The plane broke apart in the air and wreckage was scattered over more than a mile and a half of flat, sandy tobacco land. The main piece of wreckage fell along a rural paved road north of Goldsboro.

One body was found in the nose section, burned beyond recognition.

THE AIR FORCE identified the men killed as Maj. Eugene Shelton, San Antonio, Tex.; Maj. Eugene Richards, Toaco, Ga.; and 1st Sgt. Francis R. Barnish, Breenfield, Mass.

Officials said there was no danger from the two nuclear weapons although there could have been a non-nuclear explosion at one point. A spokesman said the unarmed weapons need a high explosive, such as TNT, as a "trigger" to set off the nuclear device. The nuclear material is kept in a separate part of the plane and the bombs are armed manually when there is intent to drop them in anger.

THE SURVIVORS were identified as Lt. A. C. Mattocks, 27, Jacksonville, N. C.; Capt. Richard W. Rardin, 33, San Antonio, Tex.; Capt. Paul E. Brown, 37, Beardstown, Ill.; Lt. William R. Wilson, 27, Somerville, N. J.; and Maj. Walter S. Tulloch, San Diego.

Four of the men were found shortly after the crash, and Tulloch, the aircraft commander and pilot, walked out of the swamp several hours later.

THE CRASH AREA was quickly blocked off by armed men. Dr. William L. Wilson, Raleigh, heading a state radiological emergency team, searched the wreckage by flashlight and said there was no danger from radioactivity.

One of the nuclear weapons was found 12 miles from the crash scene. Officials said it had been successfully ejected from plane, descended by a parachute and landed beside a road.

The wreckage of the bomber fell within 200 yards of homes on both sides of the area.

Air Force authorities said the plane was on a "round-robin airborne training alert" when the pilot of the craft reported trouble. Shortly after the trouble was reported an emergency was declared and preparations were made at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, home of the 4241st Strategic Air Command Wing based plane.

A similar crash of a B52G occurred last week in Southern Utah.

Kennedy Works on Disarmament

Schedules His State of Union Address Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today shaped a disarmament program expected to be the basis for new negotiations with Russia and set Monday as the date for his first State of the Union Message to Congress.

Giving priority to foreign affairs and defense matters, the President called his State and Defense Department high commands to work on the disarmament problem.

THE MEETING got under way shortly after Kennedy held his first weekly conference with Democratic congressional leaders and disclosed he would deliver his State of the Union Message to a joint session Monday. Further sessions with congressional leaders will be held every Tuesday morning.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said "The State of the Union Message will be a review of the situation in the world and at home as seen by President Kennedy."

SALINGER ANNOUNCED that the address would be followed up by messages on specific subjects and recommended changes in the budget submitted by former President Eisenhower, possibly starting next week.

The secretary said the first message to follow the State of the Union Message will be a report on the state of the nation's economy.

Before going into the disarmament discussions, Kennedy made two new appointments to his administration. He named Clarence D. Martin Jr., Santa Monica, Calif., auto dealer, to be undersecretary of commerce for transportation, and James J. Symington, of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., as deputy director for food for peace.

HENRY E. SCHULTZ

Anti-Defamation Group Chairman To Speak Here

Henry E. Schultz, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, will deliver a major address at the three day annual meeting of the Joint Defense Appeal Western Council at the Hotel Riviera the weekend of Feb. 3-5, it was announced by Melvin M. Swig of San Francisco, Council chairman.

Schultz will speak at the dinner session on Feb. 4, at 6:30 p.m.

IT IS EXPECTED that some 300 Jewish community leaders from 10 Western states and a large number of local leaders will be present at the session to hear Schultz's address and to participate in the program of the meeting.

$140 in Cash Taken From Market Here

Palm Springs police today are investigating a burglary of approximately $140 in cash and merchandise, plus coin donations in the City of Hope counter container in the Ranch Palm Market, 1800 East Vista Chino Drive, sometime last night.

Castro Vows Death to His Enemies

Opposition To 'Justice' Is Growing

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro vowed early today he will wipe out his enemies despite growing opposition to his firing squad "justice" climaxed Monday night by a violently dispersed mothers' march on the Cuban "white house."

In a two-hour speech to 1,200 volunteer teachers, Castro declared his political foes will be subjected to "persecution so tenacious and implacable it cannot be imagined."

"NOT A SINGLE one will escape!" he shouted. "All of the people clamor for a single punishment!"

"The wall! The wall!" the crowd chanted in response—meaning the firing squads which have killed 10 Cubans this month and nearly 700 in the past two years.

A few hours earlier, the Castro government had announced that a temporary suspension of "revolutionary justice" would end today.

CASTRO INDICATED clearly that the annihilation of his enemies will start with "more than 20" anti-Communist guerrillas who he said had been captured by Castro troops in the Escambray Mountains.

At least 100 political prisoners are awaiting trial, including six Americans accused of landing in Cuba to join the guerrillas.

The premier blamed "imperialism" and "fascistic priests" for the growth of anti-Communism in Cuba.

FAMILY OF SLAIN patrolman Gail Gene Eldridge was joined here Saturday by his brother Harvey, right, of Detroit. Shown from left are his wife, Mrs. Emmeline Eldridge; son Robert, in mother's lap; Gayle Lynn and Donna Louise. Rites for slain officer, who died Wednesday night from bullet wounds inflicted by robbery suspect, were held at 11 a. m. Monday in Community Church. Interment will be in Garden City, Mich. The second of two benefits scheduled to aid the family of the heroic officer—a $10 per plate dinner—is scheduled for Thursday night in the Biltmore Hotel here. The Gail Eldridge Memorial Fund has reached a total of $2,861.70. (Desert Sun Photo)

School Move Set Monday

Moving day for the Agua Caliente school will come this weekend for staff and maintenance personnel, and in a simple switch of location 248 pupils will troop to their sparkling new school in the California Dream Homes site Monday morning.

Principal Sam Micelli announced that a new kindergarten session will be opened from 12:25 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. Toys from the Dream Homes Estates, the Outpost area and Thousand Palms who have reached their fifth birthday by Dec. 1, 1960, are eligible for enrollment.

INSIDE OF HOME GUTTED BY BLAZE

A volunteer fireman was injured and a Thunderbird Country Club home was gutted by fire last night in a blaze which "exploded" throughout the house about 9 p.m. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

James K. Otto, 23, 38-281 Charlesworth Drive, Cathedral City, was injured when he fell on the jagged, broken glass of a sliding door as he helped wrestle a fire hose into position to extinguish the blaze.

OTTO SLIPPED and fell on the jagged glass, causing a deep laceration of the right thigh.

The home, owned by Dr. Roland Brown of Lafayette, Calif., was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Gale.

The fire apparently started from an electrical short in a floor lamp, catching the chair in which Gale was sitting, ablaze.

In an attempt to get the chair out of the house, the Gales opened a door which caused the blaze to "explode" into an inferno.

BY THE TIME that 20 volunteers and five state fire units arrived on the scene, the fire had all but burned itself out, smothering in its own smoke.

Fire units from Cathedral City, Palm Desert and Thousand Palms answered the call, as well as supervisors Carl Yeager and Bill Lord and fire investigators from Indio.

Fire officials said that there would not have been as much damage in the house if doors had not been opened when the fire was discovered.

'Tranquil' Aboard, Report

By United Press International
Armed rebels who seized the cruise ship Santa Maria in an uprising against the Portuguese government dodged American and British warships and planes in the Caribbean today but the 600 passengers, many of them Americans, were reported safe.

Earlier reports said they were being "terrorized" by armed pirates.

THE 20,000-TON vacation liner with 600 passengers and 300 crewmen appeared to have vanished. A U. S. Navy station in Trinidad speculated the Santa Maria may be hiding in some cove as pirates did in the days of old when they sailed the Spanish Main 200 years ago.

A radio message from the "commander of occupation forces" on board the Santa Maria reported all was "tranquil." Personal messages addressed to relatives in the United States confirmed this, the RCA Marine Radio Station at Chatham, Mass., said.

THE NAVY ANNOUNCED in San Juan it had nine U. S. aircraft searching for the ship including four hurricane hunter planes converted Constellations, three PF2 Neptunes and two Albatross amphibians in addition to two destroyers and a British frigate.

The Navy said the orders were for the destroyers to overtake the Santa Maria and send a boarding party aboard if necessary to find out if an act of piracy was committed. However, a spokesman said the Navy would be unable to act if the ship reaches the territorial waters of another nation.

THERE WAS speculation the liner may be heading for Brazil to link up with followers of Gen. Humberto Delgado, an arch political foe of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar. A radio message from the ship today called the takeover the first step in a rebellion against Salazar.

NO NEEDLE, JUST HAYSTACK SEARCH OBJECT

PALM DESERT — Sheriff's deputies today are searching for a haystack missing from here. Arthur Emerson, 74-439 Driftwood Drive, notified officers today that 20 to 25 tons of alfalfa hay had been taken from the Palm Desert Ranch recently.

CofC to Install Officers Tonight

Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual installation of officers at a dinner party at 6 p.m., tonight, Tuesday, at El Mirador Hotel.

CITES EXPERIENCE

Use Seat Belts, Advice of Miller

Don Miller, founder and former president of the Palm Springs Safety Council, had a special message to local residents today from personal experience.

The advice is "wear seat belts."

MILLER, HIS wife and two sons were returning from Riverside Sunday evening. He and his wife were wearing seat belts, and the two children had climbed into the front seat of the car during the trip. All at once Miller noticed that a driver was trying to turn left at an intersection just this side of Sunnymead.

He made a fast stop, with about three other cars, but a driver behind didn't. A vehicle traveling at about 30 miles per hour struck the rear of the Miller car, slamming it forward into another vehicle.

THE TWO BOYS, Douglas, 5, and Steven, 3, were hurled forward by the impact, striking the dashboard. X-rays were taken yesterday as a precaution. The Millers were held by the seat belts, although the force of the impact tore the front seat loose.

"I was sold on seat belts before," Miller said today. "Now I'm doubly sold as they without doubt prevented serious injury to myself and my wife."

COUNCIL DISAGREES

Issue of Finance Officer, Manager May Go to People

With the City Council split over a proposed change in the status of Director of Finance, and unless a simple solution can be found, the people of Palm Springs may find the issue up for a public vote.

Palm Springs attorney Warren Slaughter told the council yesterday that it had three choices in making changes to the ordinances which govern the hiring and dismissal of the Finance Director.

SLAUGHTER SAID first that any change in the City Manager ordinance would have to go to a vote of the people; second, the council could amend the city treasurer ordinance; or they could divide the office of Director of Finance from the City Treasurer, having the treasurer appointed by the council and the director appointed by the city manager.

Slaughter backed the legal counsel for the League of California Cities, by saying that there were inconsistencies in the two ordinances, and said that they should be corrected.

CITY ATTORNEY Jerry Bunker, however, continued his disagreement with the two "authorities" and said that there were no inconsistencies. "Any changes that are made would be political," he said.

But members of the council did not agree. Bunker said that he was not interested in the "politics" of the matter, but only in the mechanics of making the change.

At present, the ordinances were set up to give the council the power to hire the city manager, city clerk, attorney and city treasurer. In 1955 the council adopted a new position — that of Director of Finance — and turned certain duties of the city clerk over to the city treasurer.

SLAUGHTER TOLD the council that this move by the council was not right, and should be corrected. Councilman George Beebe said that he believed that "we should leave it alone, everything is going along alright. If there is a disagreement between department heads, we should clear that up or fire them."

But Beebe stood almost alone. Councilman Kenneth Kirk pointed out that the opinion of Bunker did not agree with that voiced by special counsel Slaughter and League of Cities representative Richard Carpenter, and "I believe we should have one head of the ship, just like it's done in big business. After all, the city is big business."

MAYOR FRANK Bogert took a stand with Kirk, saying that in business all controllers and finance officers are under the manager, who in turn makes reports to the board of directors, which in this case is the city council.

Councilman Earle Strebe said that he would like to put the matter off until other more important matters are taken care of, but "something should be done about the inconsistencies in the two ordinances."

FIRE CAUSED $25,000 damage to the Dr. Roland Brown residence at Thunderbird Country Club early last night, and flashed through the home before State Forestry units could arrive at the scene. A fireman, James K. Otto of Cathedral City was injured when he slipped and fell on broken glass in a sliding glass door. The home was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Gale. Pictured above is a room of the home, with Bert Bender, a house man with Fairway Estates, starting the clean-up of the house. (P.S. Newsphoto).

FARRELL DRIVE, running through from Ramon Road, across McCallum-Tahquitz to Andreas Road is now being paved by the new Seeterra Shopping Center. The street is a major contribution by the builders of the shopping center which will have bowling lanes, a Market Basket store, a Thrifty Drug store, a bank and several satellite stores. The picture was taken from Ramon Road and the building at left of center is the new market.

DESERT BRAEMAR

How Did Braemar Get It's Name?

A visitor at Desert Braemar, the 100 unit cooperative garden apartment, after viewing the attractive grounds is likely to say, "Such a unique and pleasant sounding name. Where did you find it?"

A good question because the project is unique, very impressive and well situated on the country club strip six miles south of Palm Springs on Highway 111.

HISTORICALLY THE great green arena of Brae's o' Mar in Scotland is the setting for the annual Braemar Festival or gathering, a combination of sports meet, pageant and musical spectacle by massed bagpipe bands and all the trappings that go with a celebration of this character, attended by thousands including the crowned heads of Britain. Nearby is the village of Braemar built in the 13th century around the castle, Kindrochit by name, once a hunting lodge of kings.

Technically the fields and meadows are known as "braes" and a certain division of land corresponding to our county is called "mar," hence Braemar. At Desert Braemar the green fields are represented by the great expanse of five acres of green lawns mainly located in two giant circles called "Circle Serene" and "Christmas Tree Circle" around which the 21 apartment buildings are grouped. Stately Washington palms amid desert cactus arrangements, backgrounds of colorful bougainvillea and many beds of flowers, petunias stock and snap dragons as well as patent roses make an attractive setting.

"GATHERINGS" DAILY around the pool are conducted by residents and friends of the one hundred apartments.

Nearby is an 18 hole putting green, and private golf driving range, also a shuffleboard court.

Cantor, Bogert In Talks

By GEORGE LAINE
Palm Springs released the floodgates here Sunday afternoon and a wave of sympathy — and nearly $1,300 — engulfed the Gale Eldridge Memorial Fund.

The capacity crowd which packed the Chi Chi Starlite Room had ample cause to be generous. There was the cause — a benefit fund to aid the fatherless family of Gale Eldridge, a Palm Springs Police Officer cut down by a burglary suspect's bullet here last Wednesday night. And there was also the show — perhaps the most talent-laden single production ever exhibited in this city.

THE CROWD WAS spurred by messages delivered spontaneously by Mayor Frank Bogert and via a tape recording from ailing Eddie Cantor who just wanted to get his feelings as a part-time resident on the record.

"We know we have out public enemies," declared Cantor. "But we also have the police, our public friends."

"Everytime a policeman pulls on his uniform," said Bogert, "he's taking a chance on getting shot."

Bogert advised the crowd that if they thought they'd seen more than they bargained for in the talent assembled at the Chi Chi, they could show their feelings by again approaching the donation boxes on the way out. Doorman Pat O'Dea and Fred Weigel reported that many attendees did so.

WHAT THE CROWD saw was more than any audience could have bargained for — a total of 13 acts (with more left waiting in the wings so that the Chi Chi could get ready for a dinner show crowd) that drew ohs and ahs, laughter and applause and provided one of the merriest afternoons this city has seen in years.

The house band — a blend of Bill Alexander's Chi Chi regulars and Billy Allen's now forming hotel crew — delivered a dance set to get things started.

Then Ace Hudkins, KPAL deejay who produced the show and emceed it until Bogert arrived, brought on Frankie Domino, a Sinatra-like singer who swung three tunes for the crowd. A short hull set in while the regular Chi Chi show set up but the wait was worthwhile as Evers and Dolores, a high-wire act, brought great sighs and ardent applause from the crowd.

Spaced between Evers and Dolores was Holly Winters, currently featured with Eddy Howard's Orchestra at the El Mirador Hotel. She sang, then peeled off her gown to reveal dancing tights which was logical enough since she thereupon proceeded to dance.

SPENDING IN U. S. HITS NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department reports that Americans spent a record $328.2 billion for goods and services last year, or about $1,823 for each man, woman and child in the United States.

The dollar total was five per cent higher than in 1959. But because prices of some items rose last year — the physical volume of goods and services bought by consumers advanced by only three per cent.

The department's report Sunday night showed that consumer spending was slipping as the year ended. On a seasonally adjusted basis, retail sales dropped in November below the October level and dipped again in December.

This downward trend paralleled declines in personal income and industrial production in the last two months of 1960. During the same two months, unemployment rose by 900,000.

Support Your Community Chest

Palm Springs Community Chest this week started its drive to raise a record $98,000 to support the activities of eight community agencies.

Appeals for donations have been sent to residents, and volunteer workers will be contacting individuals and business and professional people to personally solicit contributions.

Palm Springs is proud of its growth, hence the need for more funds to operate the vital community services for children and adults. Agencies dependent upon Community Chest include the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Welfare and Friendly Aid, Boys Club, Desert Museum, Youth Center, Safety Council, Camp Fire Girls.

The need is present. The time to send in your donation is now. Everyone can spare a few dollars to support the organizations which support you and your community.

It's an investment in Palm Springs — the city in which you live.

Needed--Profiles in Skepticism

WASHINGTON, D. C. — American scientists and observers who returned last year from the Sixth Pugwash conference of nuclear scientists, held in Moscow, brought back a message which one or more of them are thought to have relayed to the President-elect. It is, very simply, that Khrushchev wants to talk with Mr. Kennedy, specifically about nuclear disarmament.

These Pugwash conferences, founded by Cyrus Eaton and the United States under secret conditions, are thought to be very useful to Soviet policy. Americans who attended include two professors at Mr. Kennedy's alma mater, Harvard, one from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston, and one from Cornell. They are, in that order, Professors Walt Rostow, Thomas Schelling, Jerome Wiesner and Jay Orear.

THESE MEN, OF course, were right in going to Moscow and learning all they can by association with Russian scientists and the five Red Chinese who also attended. But with the right there goes a responsibility, especially in the instance of Rostow, a close Kennedy adviser, to keep their guard up against Communist sneak-punches.

BUT THE DANGER in all atomic matters is too great, and the increasing talk of a lovefest with Soviet Russia is too persistent, to allow us to be complacent. In view of the gravity here, some Pugwash personalities may be introduced.

In letters to the New York Times something over a year ago, Professor Orear takes the position that his country, not Russia, is in the wrong concerning the negotiations on nuclear disarmament. "Most 'experts' on Russia," he writes rather amazingly, "feel that the Soviet Union will not cheat on the test ban agreement." But at least two highly knowledgeable Americans, Atomic Energy Commissioner John McConne and Vice President Nixon have both publicly expressed exactly the opposite belief — that Russia has been cheating.

OREAR ALSO proposed a system of citizen informers—"making it a citizen's legal duty," he writes, "to report knowledge of secret testing to the International Control Commission." As if people in a totalitarian State would dare report against their government! It is a naive plan that would give every advantage to the enemy. Let's hope that Orear doesn't become a Kennedy adviser — unless he learns better.

In contrast, we may examine testimony of an admittedly naive scientist who did learn better. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who says he once knew and cared so little about economics and politics that he read almost nothing about public affairs and didn't bother to vote, lived to write as follows about international control of atomic energy:

"WERE WE NOT dealing with a rival whose normal practices . . . involve secrecy and police control which is the very opposite of the openness that we have advocated . . . we might believe that less radical (safeguards) could be adequate . . . My own view is that only a profound change . . . would give substance to the initial high hope."

Another American scientist who lived and learned is Dr. Eugene Rabinowitch, founder and editor of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists. He attended the early Pugwash conferences and guardedly approved the idea. But later he came to write this warning in his own magazine about the main bureaucratic supporter in Russia of the Pugwash meetings:

"THE SOVIET Academy of Sciences is the General Staff of a highly organized army . . . it is still a government organ. Its Presidium is, in practice, a Ministry of Science directing almost the whole of fundamental (and much of applied) research in the Soviet Union in conformity with the general policies of the State."

There are indications that Khrushchev is approaching Mr. Kennedy through some of our Pugwash personalities. The hardest thing for a scientist to do, apparently, is to realize that his fellow scientist may be a foreign agent, and if Russian, very probably is.

We'd better hope that those with access to Mr. Kennedy's confidence have Profiles in Skepticism.

First Crisis Has Been Met

WASHINGTON — The first crisis of the Kennedy administration has been met forthrightly and resolved: The new President's eyes are greenish-gray. Not blue. Not brown. Not blue and brown. Greenish-gray.

The matter came up when a newspaper that subscribes to the American Weekly challenged the reproduction last Sunday of the great Karsh's fine photographic portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy which appeared on the cover of the supplement. The paper complained that Mr. Kennedy's eyes came out brown when, actually, they are blue.

JACK O'CONNELL, the outstanding young editor of the weekly, immediately went to work to confirm the brown eyes. He packed a reporter off to examine the President's driving license papers in Boston, only to learn, alas, that these carried a notation that his eyes were gray.

Editor O'Connell next called Marianne Means, the strikingly lovely Phi Beta Kappa (natch) who will cover the White House for Hearst headline service from now on, and asked her to check. Marianne called Pierre Salinger, the man closest to the new President.

"WHAT COLOR eyes does he have?" she asked. There was a pained pause on the other end of the line. "Gee, I've never noticed," Salinger said.

The Democratic National Committee didn't know, either. An effort to reach the President's mother failed, but finally Marianne got through to the man himself, via Salinger. Kennedy sent word back that there wasn't any question about it: His eyes were greenish-gray.

Which left Karsh holding the bag — the brown bag, as Marianne put it.

GRAY-GREEN, blue, black, brown, hazel or chartreuse, they are very magnetic eyes — and imbedded in a vibrant person. I found myself somewhat skeptical in the campaign when Gov. Dave Lawrence of Pennsylvania, who had been a Stevenson man going into the Democratic Convention, told me, "This young fellow has captured the imagination of people more than anybody since the early Franklin Roosevelt. People want to touch him."

They do. At an otherwise well-mannered party given by Mr. and Mrs. Bart Lytton of Los Angeles the other night, Kennedy's arrival caused near chaos. He was crowded so badly that even the photographers had trouble getting near him. George Jessel, trying to introduce him above the roar of acclaim, inadvertently shouted what sounded like an admonition. He shouted into the microphone, "... and now, Mr. President — Quiet!"

BY STARTLING contrast, Vice President Nixon left the Capitol at about the same time, after a long day's work. A friend who happened to be passing waved to him. Dick waved back. Several other persons nearby did not appear to recognize a man who had lost the presidential race by the slimmest whisker.

It seemed to the friend the bleakest possible vignette, the cruelest contradiction of the old American phrase, "It isn't whether you win or lose but how you played the game."

AT THE WHITE House yesterday a good friend of Jim Hager, now the news and special events boss of the American Broadcasting Co., said, "Jim's looking for a television commentator, a fellow who can stand up against the Huntley-Brinkley team and Douglas Edwards."

"I've got just the fellow for him," I said. "He's had more news experience than all of them. He's got a golden voice, prestige, a magnificent personality, keen judgment, wit, poise, good looks, was a war correspondent, has traveled all over the world, and is available."

"Great," Jim's friend enthused. "Perfect! Who is he?" "John Daly," I said.

Date lines, head lines Of Palm Springs, That's why Cliff Brown's Heart now sings.

Mr. Brown, you know, is official tub-thumper for Palm Springs. He's the publicist. Gathering his clams periodically to keep the name of our city in the city prints.

THAT'S JUST WHERE it is. What with the 18th running of the road races last weekend, the forthcoming Palm Springs Golf Classic, the Angels coming here for spring training, PALM SPRINGS is the headline in many a story and headline across the nation.

The mail is beginning to show it.

Friends in other cities in the Midwest and east, knowing my chauvinistic attitude toward the desert, are sending me clippings.

THEY COME from far and wide. The just-ended road races carried the Palm Springs date-line in mostly western area newspapers and didn't go nationwide.

But the upcoming Classic is getting more and more lines and features in papers from coast to coast.

It's a great boost for Palm Springs and the desert area and the tempo of the publicity is picking up as the date for the Classic nears.

COMING OF THE Los Angeles Angels, new Los Angeles American League baseball club toward the end of February, is also making the headlines.

Both the Classic and the baseball training exhibition games will put thousands of words on the press wires and on the air waves about the desert area. All of which pleases Cliff Miller and Jimmy Cooper, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

SLIGHTLY MORE than 100 years ago, in 1854 to be exact, Horace Greeley wrote his now famous editorial, advising young men to "Go West!"

Last week, Palm Springs Retail Merchants Association amended that. They urge all to "Go Western."

So, on Saturday personnel of local stores donned colorful Western garb in keeping with the traditions of the Old West, which played an important part in the start and growth of Palm Springs.

THAT, I THINK, is a good thing. It was a letter to The Sun from Jimmy Cooper, now C. C. manager, about 15 years ago bemoaning the disappearance of the Old West atmosphere, that first started this "Western attire on Saturday" deal. It also started Western Week, which for a dozen years was an October feature here. Like Western garb, that also disappeared.

Now, the Western costume Saturday idea has been revived. Who knows, perhaps they can revive that old Western Week wherein everybody had so much fun and the "season" was given a good start.

That would be good.

STAN DELAPLANE:

Hallowed Ivy Halls

We are preparing for graduation these days. That is, my daughter and I are preparing for HER graduation. But our emotion is strong and mutual.

It takes a strong man (and a strong girl) to stand up to these things.

We are like iron. Almost at the melting point. I must say. But still firm in the face of this holy moment.

"WHAT DO YOU wish for a graduation present, my dear?" I have thought, in moments of weakness which seize me from time to time, — thought that graduation would never come. I nearly didn't get out of the seventh grade while she was in it.

THOSE PROBLEMS in arithmetic!

"Mr. Jones has a house for which he pays $6000 . . ."

Show me a house you can get for $6000—that is what I thought while we were wrestling with that one.

Anyway in the book Jones had this low-cost scatter. He paid so much interest and so on. You were to figure how long it took him to pay for it.

THAT WAS SEVENTH grade, I think. Maybe eighth. In any case, it was a hard year.

The way I figured it — and I figured from experience. I figures Jones would NEVER get his house paid for. And I told my child exactly why.

With a $6000 house, it is a cinch that he skimped on the plumbing. He put in terra cotta drains outside. In five years, the trees will root in that direction — trees naturally make for drains and no naturalist can tell you why.

"THE TREES WILL punch holes in the terra cotta drain. They will grow inside and block them completely."

"Jones will then employ one of the millionaires who make a hobby of fixing drains like this. In order to employ him (at the fabulous price such gentlemen get for interrupting their polo games), he will have to go to the bank.

"AT THE BANK, HE will take a 'home improvement loan.' He will 'open the end of the mortgage,' as we homeowners say. "At this point Jones is cooked. He is staring down the barrel of the banker's pistol. And he has little chance of ever burning the mortgage. Better he should go home and burn the house."

WELL, THAT WAS the wrong answer. I sent it to school in good faith. But our teachers were not acquainted with the School of Hard Knocks.

Later we took up civics. I got some good answers on that one. Answers I got hanging around city hall politicians and chasing ambulances with swift-footed attorneys.

The teachers graded the answers very low. (Though they worked fine in elections.)

WE PROGRESSED to learned matters of history. "What do you know about John Brown?"

Well, it happens I knew a Johnny Brown. He did a little time for hot checks. But he recovered and became a bookie. I got out quite a bit on him before I found out they meant the Civil War John Brown.

I THEREUPON whipped off a couple of stanzas cribbed from Stephen Vincent Benet. Plus an opinion that his body lies a mouldering in the grave — that being all I knew.

And we lost plenty of numbers on that one.

THAT IS WHY it comes to me as a breath of fresh air to know we are getting out of school at last. I have not decided what to wear to graduation. But I think it should be blue serge.

That is what I wore last time.

Dear Abby...

...by Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: A mother in our neighborhood is giving her 15-year-old daughter a stork shower. The girl is not married and will not be by the time the baby arrives. The 17-year-old father - to - be spends all his time at the girl's house. He quit school last year, hasn't a job and isn't looking for one.

The juvenile authorities won't allow the couple to get married because the boy "seems unable to accept responsibility" and has a poor family background.

All the mother of the girl says is, "It could happen to anyone, and what's done is done, so give the kids a break."

Fifty people are invited to this shower. I think it is in very poor taste. Am I —

"TOO STRAIGHT-LACED"

DEAR "TOO": Not in my opinion. We need to lace up some of those old-fashioned morals a little tighter. To attend a stork shower for an unmarried girl — under those bold circumstances — is to imply your approval of the whole unfortunate mess. What's done is indeed done but needn't be overdone!

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my boy friend is 22. We've been seeing each other for almost a year. He tells me he "loves" me, but he never mentions marriage. I am not trying to rush him into anything, but I date only him, and pretty soon I won't have a chance to get anyone else. Putting it cold, how can I get a proposal of marriage out of him? Should I come right out and ask him where I stand? All my friends are getting married and I feel —

"LEFT OUT"

DEAR LEFT: You are only 20, have been seeing the young man for less than a year, and are straining for a proposal. Ease off, Honey, and let this one marinate. If a girl has to ask a fellow where she stands — she's probably standing on the outside, looking in.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I read your advice column, I drop another quarter in my piggy bank for a ticket back to the paradise of the Orient. The females there are so much more superior to the gold-digging, alimony-hunting cry-babies that make up our womankind.

The only thought in the head of an Oriental woman is to keep her husband comfortable, happy and to obey his wishes. All American women ever think of is themselves. As far as this cat is concerned, when the man said "Go West," he was talking right to me, but he meant WAY out. Excuse my dust.

—From PALM SPRINGS

DEAR ALLIGATOR: I am sending you another quarter for your piggy bank to hasten your departure. There are jets leaving every day.

of the show were the Dominos—Billy Ward's great assemblage of vocal talent. They sang everything they could lay their tongues to, left 45 minutes later with the crowd screaming, literally screaming, for more. Although there are segments of their book and approaches by some of their number that leave me a little cold, they are still one of the strongest club attractions in the business today and they proved it, easily, Sunday afternoon.

Arthur Blake, the star of the La Paz Hotel show, did his "Eleanor" routine and several others and registered quickly with his audience.

So did Mickey Finn, the Hollywood film "meanie," who heckled Mayor Bogert so persistently from inside that the mayor finally invited Finn onstage, then proceeded to flip him, judo-style, on his backside.

"Next?" questioned the mayor as Finn limped back to his seat.

MURRAY ARNOLD'S Trio — from Howard Manor — was next up and Murray brought the crowd up strongly with his often-demanded version of Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto.

The Guadalajara Boys, from the Doll House, next appeared and they drew solid crowd reaction.

So did Jeri Sullivan who, by me, was second best only to the Dominos on the benefit show. In front of the Chuck Travis Trio—featuring Ace Hudkins on drums — Miss Sullivan demonstrated the reasons she can work the Sportsman. The crowd silenced as soon as she started to sing (an event that sometimes occurs at the Sportsman, too) and they kept quiet — save for applause — until she exited. A nifty stylist, she was one of the standouts of the afternoon.

PEPE CALLAHAN, always a strong performer, did some songs and so did the Tom Russell Trio with Dorise Van Julio. Corona joined Callahan on a later song and also played — as only he can — a pair of guitar solos in the classical style which has endeared him to Villagers.

Last act of the afternoon was another lustrous one — Janey Saylor with the Chuck Travis Trio. She welded a group of tunes together and left the already worn-out audience even the more worn.

FIRST GALLERY SHOW

Graves Exhibition Features Students

Paintings by students of O.E.L. Graves. On view in the East Gallery of the Ferrall's Playhouse at Deep Well.

The major surprise for this viewer contained in the initial art exhibition of the season in the thoroughly re-worked East Gallery of the Ferrall's Playhouse at Deep Well is the presence of works by some persons whose names I've known since I've been in Palm Springs — but not as artists.

AS STUDENTS, they also have one other attribute in common, a rather free-wheeling use of color, some of it striking but some of it only startling.

Reviewed as a student show, you'd have to eliminate Caroline Summers' two works immediately. She is much too proficient an artist to be gauged on student standards. (In fact, one of the two paintings hung by her in this show already belongs to a private collection.) There is great mood in her "Hamlet," great comprehension of color in "Laura."

AILEEN DWIGHT'S establishment of immediate mood in both "Tightrope Walker" and "Ballet Russe" is a recognizable facet. Edna Rothbart's "Crap Game" and "Dancer" indicate an awareness of color, and Rita Irwin's "Ballet" has a rather commercially pleasant appeal.

Vicki Malouf's three works were particularly pleasing to me, perhaps because I didn't even know she painted, but also possibly because there was a quality of imagination present in each. "Yellow Hair," "China Lady" and "Carousel" are the titles with the latter one of the better works on view in the gallery.

THE TYPEWRITTEN list on the wall near the entrance should be changed. It indicates a painting called "Wistful" by Win Decker, as having been painted by R. Simon. If true, it would have been the best of Simon's paintings. As it stands, he has five paintings hanging in the gallery including a fairly impressive item titled "High Yellow" (which represents a thorough immersion in feeling — and in yellow paint). I couldn't determine from a glance which was which between "Night Club" or "Midnight Fantasy" and it might be advisable for the gallery to individually title the paintings on view.

In addition to the "Wistful" mentioned above, Win Decker also has two other works — "Wistful, Too" and "Untitled" — and I think I can help her with a title. All three of these indicated more than a passing affinity for the medium.

THERE ARE FIVE paintings by Lynn Simon which embody some vivid colors but which also fetch up the same problem the other Simon dealt me. I couldn't figure out which was which between "Concentration" and "Reflection" and, not that it matters, neither could a quickly-taken poll of two or three persons in the gallery.

I found Joan Bering's efforts largely good — the pairing of "Amour de Ballet" and "La Bal-lerina" was quite impressive — and Helen Ray's "Intervalle" also indicated an attentiveness to her lessons. Merle Kingsley's "Orange Dancer" provided a startling use of color and his "Three Figures" was among the better efforts on the dancer assignment.

AFTER SUN-SET

Hot Dogs Due This Week

By GEORGE LAINE

The lowly hot dog, long the butt of jokes here and abroad, is coming into its own throughout the Southland as a result of a man with a keen business sense and a flair of "do-it-yourself" cooking.

The 17th location for "The Hot Dog Show" — the brain child of former show biz management ace A. H. (Al) Melcher — is scheduled to open at 134 North Palm Canyon Drive later this week.

MELCHER, WHO CAME to Los Angeles in 1938 after spending nearly three decades managing show business bands and other talents, started the first Hot Dog show business bands and other talents, started the first Hot Dog hot dogs. It's really caught on.

"All my life I've wanted to be a chef," Melcher explained with a shrug. "The extent of my knowledge was roasting hot dogs."

The hot dogs that will be in the spotlight when the Hot Dog Show opens here bear no slightest resemblance to the ones Melcher used to experiment on in pre-Hot Dog Show days.

"It's a non-commercially marketed hot dog," he explained. "The only place you can get Hot Dog Show hot dogs in right here — at the Hot Dog Show."

THE FIRST LOCATION Melcher opened still stands — and still does a roaring business — on La Cienega Boulevard, across the street from the exclusive Tail of the Cock restaurant. While some diners are forking over as much as $10 for a meal at the Tail, Melcher said, his customers are eating the ultimate in hot dogs for just 50 cents.

"That doesn't mean we have no class," he hastened to add. "Marilyn Maxwell comes in all the time. (See photo above.)"

"So do people like Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Ritz Brothers, Mickey Rooney, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Liz Taylor, Dan Dailey, Harry James and Betty Grable, Doris Day, Donald O'Connor — I'm no name-dropper but I could go on all day."

THE HOT DOG, Melcher believes has suffered in recent years. It'll be 86 years old this year — for Americans — but the German import still is regarded in some quarters as a poor substitute for food.

"I'm trying to erase that attitude," Melcher said, seriousness in his tone. "My Hot Dog Shows are places where the person with discriminating taste can buy an exceptional lunch or snack. Anyone can be a gourmet with a Hot Dog Show in town."

The heavy-set former show biz manager — he managed band-leader Roger Pryor and actress Ann Southern when the two were married, also handled Russ Morgan, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and others for a period — is certain that the Palm Springs Hot Dog Show is going to make chain-wide history soon after its opening.

"We'll probably sell the 30-millionth Hot Dog Show hot dog here," he said, smiling.

And smiles spread quickly over the faces of his partners — Minka Zorka, Herman Schacht and Ernie Glaser.

NOTES OFF THE CUFF: Georgio's opened up last night in the location that used to house Little Lindy's . . . Good Italian food . . . Lee Patterson, star of "Surf-

BARBARA DANE ADDED TO BOB HEWHART SHOW

SAN BERNARDINO — Concerts, Inc. has signed Barbara Dane, blonde blues sensation and folk singer to augment the Bob Hewhart show, scheduled for Saturday night, Feb. 11 at Swing Auditorium.

Called "the greatest blue voice to come along in 20 years," Barbara was a late bloomer in the big time. After a spotty career that included stints as an alto soloist in church choirs, operatic trainee and "arty" folk singer, she began singing New Orleans blues in San Francisco waterfront boites, and found her true medium.

Party Has Carnival Mood

Thursday which was Top Hat Day in the Nation's Capital . . . also saw the top hats turn out for Racquet Club's fabulous Carnival in Rio Party . . . with Charlie Farrell wearing his Mad Hatter hat which he had brought back from the Virgin Islands; Gloria (Mrs. Norman) Greer looking petite and feminine in white tie and tails with top hat; and Thomas and Simone Hormel (of the meat packing family) among other Mad Hatters.

The Club's Bubble Room was bubbling over in carnival spirit, like a freshly uncorked bottle of champagne. Richard Strauss had made it exciting with a glittering mirror ball, huge expansive paper balls of many colors and dripping serpentine, so that it was gala as New Years. It was really a night in Rio . . . honoring Brazilian Consul Raul de Smanek, whom Mayor Frank Bogert proclaimed an Honorary Citizen of Palm Springs.

Costumed characters cavorted to the rumbas and sambas, and gauchos tangoed with circus girls in as colorful an assemblage as has ever gathered even in the Racquet Club.

Virginia Farrell was one of the many wearing a fruit-on-turban headdress with Brazilian blouse and skirt and pounds of jewelry; Ray Ryan wore the extravagant satin robes of an African Masai Chieftain, which he wore last winter for the Bachelors Ball in Los Angeles; Bob Morton added a family heirloom vest to his dinner clothes and his attractive wife was chic and continental in a long two-tiered gown.

Fabrizio Mioni (he's under contract to MGM) wore a hat tufted with bright pheasant feathers and adorned with orchids and butterflies, and carried a pet marmoset (live and cuddly); the Bob Alexanders of San Antonio came as The Lady and The Tramp (the Seymour Zieberts of Los Angeles were with them . . . and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Waters of New York.

polo players Dick Neville of L.A. and Erwin Arriz of Mexico City, Jessie Thompson of Beaumont, Texas and Jan Dody).

Gar Moore was turbaned and eye-patched, and dramatic in a long white Persian coat, and his wife Isobel won first prize for elegance, wearing a high, jeweled headdress with a glittering evening gown. Mrs. William Powell, who helped arrange the party, was a circus girl with brief blue green costume and matching feathers in her hair. Marj De Lauer was wearing a long American Beauty gown with sprays of orchids framing her bare shoulders, in pictorial fashion.

Lovely Janet Gaynor and her mother Mrs. Laura Gaynor were with the Farrell Party, which also included Frederick ("My Fair Lady") Loewe and Tammy Allen, the Curt Griffins and Frank Bogerts.

The stately Marchesa Lily Gerini, with a tall feathered hat (in her favorite green) arrived with a group which included her weekend houseguests Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Grant IV, and Cliff Arquette of television and screen (Charlie Weaver).

At one long table were the Harry Joe Browns (she with brilliant fruit headdress), the Carl Lesermans (Philo with long dark braids), the Stuart Hopps (more fruit salad), Lester Seligs (braids, I think), the Harold Florsheims and Helen Florsheim, the Eddie LeBarons (Burnie in flowing turquoise chiffon with blue and white flowers atop her dark hair) were near by.

Among others in the picturesque Holmes and Paul McNamara (as American tourists), Mara Lane (she added a red rose and black lace mantilla to her black dinner gown and looked very Spanish), Bill Dugger (in gaucho costume). The Jack Lamberts were dining with Harpo and Susan Marx, ring-side to the dance floor. With the Fred Albertsons were Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Rhoads of Beverly Hills.

In another group were Mary Morrison, Betsy Duncan, Dorothy Hubert and Bill Noble. The Sol Bakers hosted a table which included Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Hart, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Brower and the Orsitts.

Among others in the picturesque crowd were: the Doyle Cottons, Dolph Obergfels, Addie Masters, Bob Mills of Ohio, Mary Dayton and Richard Strauss (they were masked and were among the costume prize winners), John Morris, the Alden Ogles, Edwin Silverman, Joe Jacksons, Marj Pohl and Ben Burnette (he's off to Memphis for a fortnight's vacation . . . but is slated to be resident manager at the new Holiday Inn when it opens), Elizabeth and Max Goodland and many more.

Mary Meade French, recently returned from Rio, was persuaded to sing, and the dance floor was crowded during courses of the exotic dinner which started with black bean soup and ended with bananas broiled in cognac. The printed menus bore the Brazilian seal and table favors were tiny plastic boxes containing topaz and agate stones from Brazil, and Brazilian currency, um cruzeiro.

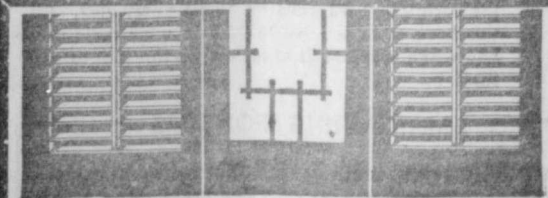

TOP HATS were noticeable at the Carnival in Rio party, but a little different from the ones television showed that morning at the inauguration in snowy Washington. That's Thomas Hormel of the meat packing family, appropriately clutching the chicken that seems headed for a stew, with his wife Simone, former ballet dancer, and Mrs. Norman Greer, on right. Mary E. Hoover Married in Zanzibar, East Africa

Friends in Palm Springs and Cathedral City have learned of the marriage of Mary Elizabeth Hoover and James Lee Ulrich, which took place January 5th in Zanzibar, East Africa.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hoover of Twin Falls, Idaho, was a former Cathedral City resident. A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, she was well-known in musical circles in Palm Springs, and for several years was organist and choir director for Cathedral City Community Church.

The bridegroom, son of Robert Ulrich of Los Angeles, and an employee of Bendix Pacific Los Angeles, is an electronic engineer associated with the Zanzibar Site of Project Mercury (Man - in - Space) as supervisor of the Telemetry Station, in charge of installation, maintenance, operation and instruction in use of equipment.

Attendants at the civil ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LeBrun and Robert Knopf, of Project Mercury. Afterwards a reception was held in the seaside home, which the newlyweds are occupying, following by a swim party and buffet supper.

The newlyweds have sent word that for an indefinite period, they will be at home to world travelers at 14966 Migombani (Place of the Banana Trees), Box 1283, Zanzibar, East Africa.

Brunch Crowd Entertained Hilariously

Another lively show delighted another capacity audience at the Ranch Club's Sunday Brunch.

Clessa Williams and Wally Harpst started things swinging with their usual opener "Blood on The Saddle" vastly amusing Tony Burke who had frequently sung this song (with a British accent) for Desert Riders.

The popular Duke Mitchell was back and he and Wally Harpst and Hal Rogers plus the inscrutable waiter Ike did the hilarious take off on the Ink Spots.

Frank Domino the lad who looks like Sinatra appeared again and Clessa and Duke bounced "Red Red Robin" back and forth until its feathers flew like down in the wind.

The group of Palm Springs High School boys. The Villagers made another appearance on the brunch program and broke up the show with their "Mr. Custer" and turned their "Shake, Rattle and Roll" song into a chorus with half the performers and part of the audience on stage. When Duke sang his triple-fast "Them There Eyes" barked Bob Simms got into the act with his trumpet and everything was jumping.

The Co Thorntons and their son and daughter - in - law the Bill Thorntons were there with the Sydney Schiffs. The Fred Albertsons and the Harrison Rhoads, of Beverly Hills were a foursome. With Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gray were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Birch (former owners of the Desert Outpost on the other side of Beaumont ... they now have a ranch in Cherry Valley since the freeway closed down the Outpost.)

With the Gordon Browns were the Dan Graysons (he's in charge of all the Hopalong Cassidy Enterprises) and Wanda Lee. Jessie Baumgardner (just returned from her Florida visit) was there.

Also in the crowd were Mr. and Mrs. Amos Kidder (he's head of the A.M. Kidder Co. of New York) and Ranch Club owners the Noel Clarkes were there with their family.

Party Tip

Tuna dips are tasty, economical party fare. For a basic dip, mix two 6½ or 7-ounce cans of tuna in oil with 1 pint of sour cream, 1 package of dehydrated onion soup mix and ½ teaspoon of hot pepper sauce. Chill and serve with potato chips, crackers, or thinly sliced pumpernickel rounds. Vary the flavor by adding tarragon and celery seed; lemon juice and horseradish; soy sauce and ginger; or curry powder and raisins.

Use empty thread spools as door stops to protect walls; as building blocks for children; as a pencil holder in a rural mail box for the convenience of the mailman.

Patanes Celebrate 17th Anniversary

Cathedral City Postmaster and Mrs. Alfred F. Patane, accompanied by their daughter Patti and son Duke, celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary with dinner at Tommy Barkers this past week. The Patanes have been desert residents since February 1944 when he was stationed as personnel officer at the Palm Springs Air Base.

PROVES 39 IN SPIRIT

Jack Benny Signs TV Contract for Next Year

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Jack Benny, that blue-eyed bundle of boffolas, has signed his contract for a weekly TV show again next year, proving he is only 39 years old in spirit if not in fact.
Men half his age have passed up weekly comedy series complaining that the grind is too much for them.
Benny thrives on the man-killing schedule.
"THIS YEAR IS the best I've ever had," he said. "The shows have been better than ever, and it's all because the program goes on the air every week instead of once a month or every two weeks. People connected with the program get in the groove, just like they did in the old radio days."
Part of the success is that viewers know he's going to be on the air at a certain time on Sunday nights each week. There's no confusion about it, and the work actually seems easier.
OTHER COMEDIANS excuse themselves from the weekly treadmill groaning that their writers can't come up with enough material to pour into video's yawning maw.
Nonsense, says Benny. His scriveners do it.

"I have to give them an argument about that," he said. "Perhaps it is true with comedians who haven't established a character and must rely on standup material."

"Fortunately," he added grandly, "I have established a character."
Several, in fact.

Indians Travel To Gate City for Practice Game

Palm Springs Indians and Paopoe quintets were in San Bernardino this afternoon to play Pacific High in two non-league basketball games. The B game gets under way at 3:30 and the Varsity following the finish of the preliminary.

Coach Jim Workman's Tribe is currently 0-3 in Desert Valley League play but had the misfortune of having the opposition at their hottest on each occasion.

Indio hit 68 per cent of its shots at the basket to win over the Tribe, Yucaipa hit 67 and Banning 58. None of them have been as accurate in any of their other games.

Following today's practice game the Indians go to Indio next Friday night to meet Coachella Valley's Arabs. The Arabs were in first place in the DVL until last Friday when Yucaipa tripped them 58-50.

OLD PROS TO HONOR OLD PRO

Porky Oliver Day to Be Observed Feb. 4

The attention of the nation's golfers, dubs as well as the low handicap variety, will be focused on Palm Springs during the playing of the second annual Palm Springs Golf Classic, February 1-5, when the leading lights in the world of golfdom compete for the $50,000 added purse.

Conspicuous by his absence from the roster of impressive professional golfers in the 90-hole tournament will be one of the game's most colorful pros, who has been a favorite with galleries from coast to coast . . . Ed "Porky" Oliver.

LAST MAY, "Ol' Po'k Chops," as he is affectionately known by his many friends in and out of golf circles, was stricken with cancer. He responded to treatment during the summer months, but was hospitalized again in December.

Released just a week ago from St. Joseph's Hospital in Denver, "Porky" is now with his family in Wilmington, Delaware.

He won't be in Palm Springs for the tournament, but "Porky's" image in the form of large pictures will be on the first tees of the five participating country clubs on Saturday, February 4, because of a group of his golfing pals, in cooperation with tournament officials, have declared it "PORKY OLIVER DAY."

MEMBERS of the Professional Golfers Association playing in the tournament have agreed to each voluntarily contribute a minimum of $10 to a fund before teeing off on Saturday, February 4.

With millions of golf enthusiasts viewing the tournament on CBS-TV from Eldorado Country Club on Saturday, February 4, (1:30-3:00 p.m., p.s.t.), it is conceivable that the fund could reach several thousand dollars.

The contributions will be given to the 46-year-old pro and father of four children to defray the heavy expenses incurred for the various treatments administered in an effort to halt the dreaded disease.

WHEN INFORMED of his prospects, the pudgy Army veteran remarked to a close Denver, Colorado, friend, George Kolowich, a trucking executive, "Looks like I'm gonna get a new job as pro at the Celestial Golf Club."

Such an expression is typical of Ed "Porky" Oliver's unvarying good humor.

Police Rodeo Starts Season in State

Leading Riders to Compete

California's 1961 professional rodeo season swings into action Saturday when the Palm Springs Mounted Police sponsor their annual two-day contest in the various competitive events in the cowboy sport with an estimated $7,000 in prize money.

California is second only to Texas in the number of professional rodeos held each year and Palm Springs annually hosts the state's premiere.

ADDING TO THE regular influx of California riders and ropers this year will be some of rodeo's front rank contestants, from Canada, Oregon, Idaho and the neighboring state of Arizona.

Marty Wood, 27, of Bowness, Alberta, 1958's world champion saddle bronc rider, plans competing in the Palm Springs rodeo this year. One of the game's riding stylists, Wood learned his balance and coordination in boyhood, training jumpers for his father.

ALMOST UNKNOWN, although he had won the Canadian saddle bronc riding championship, he came to Omaha in 1953, beat the sport's riding giants there, and since has been a top name in pro rodeo. He finished 1960 in fifth place with winnings of $14,221.

Another saddle bronc riding specialist returning to Palm Springs in search of more prize money is Cecil Swaggart of Ritter, Ore. Swaggart has placed deep in the bronc riding for the past two years here in Palm Springs, splitting first and second - place in 1959, third and fourth last year.

ARIZONA WILL SEND two tough arena competitors in Buddy Peak and Mel Potter, both of Tucson. The former is one of the leading two - event men in rodeo, finishing 1960 in fifth place among the bareback bronc riders, with $9,661, and fourteenth in bull riding with $6,668.

Potter, a gangling six - foot, four inches and 175 pounds, is a former University of Arizona student who graduated into pro ranks from intercollegiate rodeo. He is an accomplished calf roper who finished among the top fifteen men for 1959, but devoted much of 1960 to operating a mink farm owned with his father in Wisconsin.

BOB SCHILD, 28, Pocatello, Ida., is another ex - collegian who gained experience in scholastic rodeo competition. He enters all three riding events, won a portion of the Palm Springs bareback bronc riding in 1959.

Opposing these out - of - state invaders will be two of California's top rodeo contestants, veteran Lawson Fore of Riverside and Don Admas of Newhall. The former, now 41 years old, is a continued threat in three events he enters, saddle bronc riding, calf roping and steer wrestling. He has a background of twenty years experience in rodeo over the country, but of late has confined his contrasting to the West Coast. He placed second on saddle broncs here in 1959, Adams enters bareback riding and bull riding.

Bucking stock again will be furnished by the Andy Jauregui string from Newhall, that contains such arena threats as Roanie and Red River in the bareback bronc division, Slingshot and Blue Bell in the bull riding.

Golfing's Grand Slam Palmer's 1961 Goal

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, proud new wearer of the $10,000 diamond - studded Hickok belt, said today he will try for golf's "grand slam" — victories in the Masters, PGA U.S. and British opens — this year.

The 30-year-old Latrobe, Pa., pro voiced his intention of becoming the first man ever to win all four of those titles during the same year after being honored here Monday night by the Rochester Press and Radio Club as the "Professional Athlete of the Year" for 1960.

WINNER of the U.S. Open and the Masters last year, Palmer said his biggest disappointment in 1960 was his failure to win the British Open.

"I had a feeling I was going to win it," he said, "and when I didn't, I was tremendously disappointed."

Palmer, who won eight major tournaments last year and set a money-winning record with more than $75,000 in tournament prize money, talked for the first time about the golf game of ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, with whom he played a "command performance" round at Augusta, Ga., last April following his Masters' victory.

"He plays a fairly good game for a man his age," said Palmer, who feels it's all right to talk

The $75,000 event starts Thursday at Harding Park.

Briggs of Detroit and Sam Reynolds of Springfield, Mo., at 71; and Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., and Harold Kneese of Alkan, S. C. at 72.

At the nearby Lake Merced club, Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., Jim King of Chicago and Ronnie Reif of Singing Hills, Calif., tied for the lead with 71's.

Wednesday at Harding Park, the $5,000 Lucky pro-amateur will be held as a warm-up for the big event. Entertainers Bing Crosby, Phil Harris and Jim Garner will be among the amateurs competing.
